Commencement of the Sixth Annual Meeting Yesterday.

Officers Elected and Reports Submitted-The Delegates Present.

The Columbia Baptist association assembled yesterday morning for its sixth annual meeting at the Thirteenth-street Baptist church. Rev. S. H. Green presided. An announcement was read that the Calvary Baptist church had increased the salary of its pastor $590. After the reading of encouraging re-ports respecting the financial and other conditions of the churches in this city, the fol-lowing officers were elected: Rev. C. C. Meador, moderator; S. M. Yeatman, clerk, and Henry Beard, treasurer. After the election of officers the association devoted the remainder of the morning session to devo-tional exercises, and at 1 o'clock a recess for an hour was taken.

The report of the executive board was read after recess. It showed that two new missions have been established by the general missionary, one in the seutheastern and one in the northeastern part of the city. By the aid of the Home Mission society the board has been able to continue Rev. O. Ellyson as general missionary. At Uniontown a very flourishing Sabbath school has been established, and the brothren there desire the patronage of the association, believing that the labor expended there will result in the construction of a new church. Dr. Moorhouse, of New York, secretary of the Home Missionary society, was invited to address the session. after recess. It showed that two new mis-

THE TRICK ON TIME.

Very Little Annoyance on Railroads-Travelers Not Complaining.

The revolution which the changing of local time all over the country has effected was accomplished without a jar or a crinkle. The railroad men especially felicitate themselves on the frictionless smoothness with which the new order of things is moving. At the Baltimore and Potomac depot a REPUBLICAN reporter was informed there had been little or no confusion or annoyance arising from the change in meridiaual time. "We change our schedule on Sundays," said an official, "because there is less travel on that day, and hence fewer annoyances suffered. Every day n which a change in schedul oes into fect some persons are "left" because they are inattentive and heedless of the change. These annoyances do not happen on the second and other subsequent days after schedule chauge. There were probably five or six persons who missed the trains on Sunday, the day the change of meridianal time place, but these pursons would have been left if the local time had been unaltered. All the trains on our road, with one exception, were advanced in their moment of starting. That exception was the 4:20 p.m. train, which was turned back to 4, and it train, which was turned back to a, and le was by this train that the few persons who 'got left' were disappointed."

The Baltimore and Ohio officials told a similar story. No one had been left, the change in the schedule with the accompanying meridianal change worked smoothy, and everybody was satisfied. The ease with which the change was apprehended and adopted was an indication to the Baltimore and Ohio people of the high intelligence of the people.

A Drunken Cripple.

A pitiful sight was witnessed by pedes trians on Pennsylvania avenue, near Third street northwest, about 9 o'clock last night, at which time a perfectly helpless cripple, on crutches, staggered along in a beastly state of intoxication. He fell to the sidewalk at short intervals, only to be again helped to his feet and crutches by the crowd of boys who had congregated about. The unfortunate man was finally propped against a tree box until Officer Tip Harlan arrived and took him to his home on First street northwest. He refused to give his name or state where he procured the liquor. The spectators were indignant, and one of them said the cripple had sent a small boy into a neighboring restaurant for the liquor.

As a literary journal it is unex-celled, and in civil and political affairs it always contends for sound ideas and prin-ciples. No more delightful paper can be had in the family circle on Sunday. Its in-fluence is always for good, and heads of families who are now arranging for next year's papers can do no better than secure it for their Sunday literature.
